TRANSCRIPT FROM A WOMAN'S DIARY.

(Original.)

Herbert Ringland called Tuesday night for his answer. I told him that I wished my husband to be interested with me in the amelioration of the condition of women. We had a long discussion on the subject, during which he asked me if I believed in women serving on juries. I told him that I believed in woman performing any and every duty a man performs except certain manual labor and the duties of a soldier. Then he said that women had been tried on a jury and he had been present at a trial before such a jury. I asked him where, but he cut me short by telling me the following story:

"The prisoner, Thomas Adolphus Sweetwood, was a mild mannered, exiled individual with a red head and freckled skin. I thought him the homeliest man I had ever seen and, since he was to be tried for bigamy, wondered how he had ever persuaded one woman to marry him, not to speak of two, when I heard a woman behind me say, 'Isn't he handsome?' The jury, twelve true and good women, were sworn and took their seats in the jury box. They seemed to be conscious that every one in the spectators' seats was looking at them. Six jury women felt of their back hair, evidently expecting to find it loose and ready to come down, while the other six adjusted their hats. They listened attentively to the indictment accusing the prisoner of marrying five women. I saw in the face of every woman on the jury a terrible premonition of the wrath to come and thought how hard it was on a man to be tried for such an offense before women."

"Wife No. 1 gave her testimony first. It was simply a form to establish her position. She looked pityingly upon the prisoner, while he looked at her with no expression at all. The other wives were present, and he stood before them like a tame bull before the foremen in a Spanish arena."

"Wife No. 2 told the story of how she had been deceived, betrayed, ruined. I glanced at the jury as they listened to her. Their eyes were flashing, but their facial muscles were working, but they were restraining their wrath nobly. Wife No. 3 was at a disadvantage, her appearance being against her. She was surely very unattractively dressed."

"And so the recital of betrayal went on till the five women had told their harrowing tales. The other two did not appear. I was very much interested in watching the expression of the jury women. The prisoner might better have been subject to the claws of twelve hungry lions. Being the first time they had sat on a jury, all were, of course, ignorant of the forms. As soon as wife No. 5 had given her experience—she was the most attractive and her case was the most heart-rending of all—up jumps the foreman and says, or, rather, screams:

"Your honor, we don't need to hear any more of this case. We are ready to find a verdict without leaving the box."

"The judge bowed politely to her and told her that a verdict would not be in order till evidence for the defense was in and the case summed up, whereupon she sank back into her seat, fanning herself violently and muttering:

"He can put in any defense he likes. He can't change my opinion."

"Some of the men in the room tittered, but the judge glared at them, and the prisoner's attorney arose. He summoned but a few witnesses to prove that Mr. Sweetwood's home with his first wife had been a pandemonium; that this had driven the poor man to seek another and another till he had tried five without getting that consoling comfort that any man has a right to expect. When the advocate came to sum up he skillfully contrived to throw all the blame on the women in the case, making no mention of the various infractions of the law of the land. He drew a picture of the horrors of married life with wife No. 1 and insinuated that wife No. 2 had been no better than she should have been before her marriage with Sweetwood. Wife No. 3, he claimed, was too vulgar for any man to live with. Wife No. 4, who had angled for him, had shamefully neglected him, while No. 5 was a hard drinker."

"Here is a case, ladies," he concluded, "where a man comes to grief through his desire to have a happy home. Unlike the pampered clubman who selfishly decries marriage, spending all his income on himself instead of supporting some good woman, the accused, believing in the sanctity of conjugal life, makes five ineffectual attempts to build a nest for the dear innocents that are to come. He then pictured the dreadful punishment the law inflicts on this poor hunter for happiness. While the selfish bachelor goes free, his last card, a glimpse of prison life, was very effective. He closed by saying that he left his client's case in the hands of those he was sure were good, merciful Christian women."

"The jury retired after definite instructions from the judge, which none of them listened to. Nobody considered that the prisoner had the slightest chance, as the charge had been fully and conclusively proved against him and no real defense put in. The jury deliberated three days, when those in favor of the culprit gradually won over those who were not, and the verdict stood not guilty."

"I sat listening to his story with suppressed indignation. When he had finished I arose and said:

"I don't believe any such trial even took place, but your story shows your opinion of women. My answer is No. 1. And I swept out of the room."

MAINE WOMAN MAKES OATH IN REGARD TO STATEMENT

In connection with the intense interest manifested by the public at large in the theory of L. T. Cooper as to the human stomach being the source of nearly all ill health, the statements of Mr. W. D. Spaulding, of Hallowell, Me., one of the oldest and best-known druggists in that state, and of Mrs. Frederick Harvey, a well known nurse living in the same place, will be interesting to thousands of persons who are today suffering from ailments directly traceable to the stomach. The fact that these statements are made voluntarily, under oath, removes all element of doubt. The statements follow:

"HALLOWELL, MAINE, July 20, 1907. 'To the COOPER MEDICINE CO., 'Dayton, Ohio.

"Gentlemen—The policy at Spaulding's drug store is to gain the perfect confidence of the public by never recommending any medicine or food, and until its virtues have been fully established. The Cooper Remedies were to us an unknown quality, we were very skeptical of their medicinal value, and it was not until several of our customers had received such beneficial results from their use that we could no longer doubt their value that we consented to take the agency for the Cooper Remedies in this territory, heartily endorsing the same."

"Herewith we give the testimonial of a lady whose case came under our personal observation from her being a regular customer, and she says:—

"Gentlemen of the Cooper Medicine Co., Dayton Ohio. It is with pleasure I recommend your New Discovery medicine, of which I have taken the contents of three bottles, and can now eat anything without inconvenience to myself. For a number of years I had suffered intensely with severe headaches, sour stomach, indigestion, pains in my side, and complications which made it exceedingly hard for me to accomplish even my household work. Physicians had given me dozens of prescriptions, which failed to accomplish a cure or even relief. Your New Discovery medicine advertisement attracted my attention, and I purchased a bottle of the medicine, which I took according to directions and before it was half gone, I felt very much better; when I had taken the contents of two bottles I gained courage to eat many things which for years I had denied myself, and found they caused me no ill effects. Today, after having used three bottles of the New Discovery, I can eat anything and feel that I am a well woman once more, and therefore would advise anyone to take Cooper's New Discovery, for I feel sure it will cure them.—Mrs. Frederick Harvey, Hallowell, Me.

"We endorse the above testimonial, under oath, as being correct."

"W. D. SPAULDING.

"Testimony before me under oath this 22nd day of July, 1907."

"Geo. A. Saxon,

"The Cooper Remedies have proven eminently satisfactory wherever introduced. We will be pleased to explain their nature to anyone wishing to know about them. We are agents."

FOR A CONTINUATION OF THE PROCTOR POLICIES.

[Communicated.]

To the Editor: I think the people of Vermont believe in the policies of the Proctor administration, as incorporated into statute by the legislature of 1906. Such measures as the weekly payment and grade crossing bills, the new railroad commission law, the regulation of child labor, and the various measures relating to the taxation of corporations, whereby corporate property is placed more nearly on an equality with private, are of much importance to the state and its citizens. The special interests affected will make a strong effort to have these laws modified in such a manner as to impair their present efficiency. In this connection should be noticed the fact of non-payment of taxes by two large corporations, necessitating suits against them by the commissioner of state taxes. It is believed that their object is not so much to avoid payment entirely, as to postpone matters until another legislative session, in the hope that amendments to the tax law may then be secured which will materially lessen their contribution to state expenses."

Having these matters in mind, I believe the people would be enthusiastic for Governor Proctor's re-nomination, could he accept. As he is not a candidate, it is my opinion that George H. Prouty is the popular choice for governor."

We need in the office a man of executive ability, who has the capacity to direct and guide men; a man of experience and one who has made a success in private life, who has demonstrated his clear-headedness by results in his own business. We need an administration with distinct and well-defined policies to be carried out, and a chief executive with character and influence enough to see that they become law. We have had such an administration in the two years just closing, with Governor Proctor at its head, and Lieutenant-Governor Prouty as presiding officer of the Senate."

Who better can carry on the work of equalizing matters as between special interests and the people—especially in regard to taxation—than George H. Prouty? He was in the thick of the fight during the last session of the legislature, and saw the enactment into law of the various measures so long wanted by the people, the present administration being the first in a generation to secure the passage of its inaugural message recommendations."

I might have added above, we need a governor who is not susceptible to the blandishments and subtle influences exerted by the paid lobby of the various interests always present in Montpelier during legislative sessions. Find out who the great corporate interests are for in the governorship contest, and then ask yourself the question, why is this so, unless they expect better treatment from their candidate during his term of office than they would receive from any other man in the field?"

The Republican party may well ponder these things before it hands to any man a nomination equivalent, as it is, to an election."

Very truly yours,

John L. Bacon.

BANKS WILL HAVE TO PAY INTEREST.

Government Funds on Deposit Call for It Under New Currency Law.

Washington, June 5.—Under the terms of the new currency law, passed by Congress in its closing hours, banks in which funds of the government are deposited must hereafter pay interest for use of such funds.

An exception is made in the case of those national banking associations designated as regular depositories in which government funds are placed strictly for use of the government's own expenses. There are outstanding about $72,000,000 of government funds on which interest must be paid by banks, and a similar amount rests in depositories not subject to the tax.

It is stated at the treasury department that not only will the tax be charged on all deposits of government money made in the future, but that the tax will be payable on funds already deposited in banks from the time the new law became effective.

The rate of interest chargeable is to be not less than one per cent, and as much more as the secretary of the treasury may deem proper. For the present, however, the probable rate of interest will be one per cent. per annum.

HUGHES WILL LOSE.

Mr. Wadsworth, Sr., Says He Cannot Pass Anti-trust Bills.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 5.—A morning paper says:

James W. Wadsworth, Sr., head of the state racing commission, Wednesday night made the positive statement that the anti-trust bill will not be passed by the legislature which will convene in Albany Monday night.

The senior member of the Wadsworth family was in the city on his way home from New York City, where it was learned that he had been in consultation with the other members of the state racing commission and representatives of the race tracks who are managing the campaign against the Hughes recommendations."

TERRIBLE CONDITIONS

Are Reported from La Guayra—No Trouble Looked for in Panama—Minister to This Country Speaks of Coming Elections.

Caracas, May 5.—Unfortunately for suffering Venezuela, and notwithstanding the fact that the bubonic plague in La Guayra seems to be under control, as a week has gone by without any new cases, this country day by day is becoming more isolated from the entire world. Very few ships now call at any of the ports, and the fact of there being no cable communication with the outside world makes the situation almost unbearable. Business houses are on the verge of despair. Because of the strict quarantine established in Caracas against all Venezuelan ports, President Castro has retaliated by having the custom houses refuse to clear any vessels for that island. Fortunately there have been no cases of plague in any of the ports except La Guayra. There has been a great exodus of people of means from Venezuela, and it would continue if there were steamers to take them away. Most of the steamers from Europe go by Venezuela without touching anywhere leaving the merchandise in Caracas, where the perishable goods spoil.

Commercial interests from the beginning have realized the gravity of the situation and the merchants have joined hands time and again in raising subscriptions among themselves to produce funds for the cleaning of La Guayra and the feeding of the hundreds of destitute poor. It is almost too much to hope that the disease has already been conquered, but the official bulletins give no new cases for a week, and there is no good evidence to disprove this statement."

Washington, June 5.—Complying with the request of the state department, the minister for foreign affairs of Honduras has ordered the arrest of F. G. Bailey, former president of the Export Shipping company of New Jersey, and the detention of the steamer Goldboro and her cargo."

This information came to the department in a despatch from Minister Dodge at San Salvador, dated yesterday."

WORLD'S LARGEST RAIL CONTRACT

U. S. Steel Corporation Gets $25,000,000 Order from Trans-Siberian Railway.

Pittsburg, June 5.—The biggest steel rail contract in the history of the world is now being closed by the United States Steel Corporation here. It is for 1,000,000 tons of rails to be used in relaying the entire trans-Siberian railway."

The Russian government has decided to have heavier rails laid than those which have been in use, and some time ago a representative of the czar was sent to America to get quotations on rails. It is thought that 85-point rails will be used, though the feature of the contract has not yet been decided."

An expert in the corporation has been sent to Russia to examine the trans-Siberian roadbed and decide just how heavy an equipment of rails should be used."

Most of the rails will be made in Pittsburg district, and the local mills are already shaping up as word has come from New York that the contract will likely be signed early next week, and if so the mills will be started at once. It is understood that two years' time is asked by the steel corporation in which to do the work."

The largest rail contract ever known, aside from the one now on foot, is for 600,000 tons sold by A. R. Peacock of the Carnegie Steel company to the Canadian Pacific railroad."

The Wretched Rich.

Despised by "poor but honests" where-ever life runs raw, Contemned by every hill-bill throughout the great Southland, Attacked for every thought they have and kicked for every deed—

The poor, unhappy wealthy, what a wretched life they lead! No preacher ever preaches without speaking of their shame, No orator will orate if he cannot call them out about,

No politician stumpspeaks without cuffing them about, Nobody gets elected who has failed to cuff 'em out.

They're "mummers of unrighteousness," they're "malfeasors," too, They're "sinister offenders," they're a base and ghastly crew, They're "foes to the republic"—that's a name that oft recurs—

They're (so says Gallant Davis) "plutocratic scavengers."

How loathed by everybody, how cursed both near and far! We all despise the purse-proud class, we kick it in the eye—

Lima, O., June 5.—The superior endurance of an automobile over horse-flesh proved the undoing of Robert McKay and pretty 19-year-old Elizabeth Kraus, of Ottawa, whose horse dropped dead in Main street here, just as the girl's inate father swooped down on the elopers in his big touring car.

HOTLY OPPOSE KING'S VISIT

Socialists in Parliament Oppose His Trip to Russia

BITTER LANGUAGE USED

"Fraternalizing with Hangmen"—But Sir Edward Grey Says Opponents' Attitude Would Lead to War—Government Wins.

London, June 5.—After an acrimonious debate in the House of Commons yesterday, in which personalities were flung broadcast, and the motives of King Edward impugned, the Laborites lost, by a vote of 226 to 88, their fight to prevent the king from making his trip to Revat to pay his respects to Emperor Nicholas.

"At one time in the debate Keir Hardie accused the Russian government of being responsible for the atrocities that were taking place in that country. The speaker called on Hardie to withdraw his remarks."

O'Grady, the Laborite leader from Leeds, led the debate against the king, while Sir Edward Grey acted as the mouthpiece for the government.

"It is inconceivable," said O'Grady, "that King Edward, with his great human heart, and his love of a free state, should wish to consort with the ruler of a country where the continual murder of the common people by the government is taking place."

In replying, Grey said it was not the House's province to meddle in the international affairs, that to do so would result disastrously to the government.

"We have advised the king to go," Sir Edward said, "and we accept full responsibility for the trip. We are pursuing a peace policy and I ask the House of Commons to decide between that and a policy which sooner or later will lead to war."

Lord Balfour, admitting that he stood with the king, still, said that he could not countenance the government's support of such a move as is contemplated."

OPPOSE WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE.

The Women Begin the Movement in England.

London, June 5.—A number of influential women, including the Countess of Jersey, Mrs. Humphrey Ward and several prominent writers and social reformers, have started an organized movement to oppose the granting of suffrage to women. The promoters say they wish to combat the spirit of sex antagonism, which the woman suffrage propaganda is arousing, and they want the fact recognized that the effectiveness of women's legislative power could not exceed the limits of the moral force exercised by their influence on men. This influence is immense without a vote, and it would necessarily be lessened proportionately as women attempted to become the competitors and rulers of men. The promoters add:

"Not a few common object to having the franchise forced upon them. They are well aware that in a majority of cases women would simply echo the views of their male relatives, in which case the franchise would be useless, and that in others discord might result from their opposition, in which case it would be pernicious."

Victoria, B. C., June 5.—The Canadian-Australian liner Manna has arrived here bringing news of the destruction of the pearling fleet in a typhoon off West Australia, involving the loss of 40 luggers and 270 lives, 20 being whites."

The disaster to the fleet occurred near Thursday island, a typhoon striking the fleet just as it was starting for the pearling grounds, scattering the vessels, completely wrecking some and driving others ashore."

About 30 Australian pearling vessels were lost. Other victims were Malays, Japanese and Kanakas."

Survivors reported harrowing experiences, some being picked up in the last stages of exhaustion after having out away their masts and clinging to the wrecked hulks while sharks followed, waiting for the exhausted men to drop from the wreckage."

Many were rescued by the steamer Parra, sent from Broome as a relief steamer. The bodies of some of the victims were eaten by sharks. The beach near Broome was a terrible sight, covered with wreckage and bodies."

SICK HEADACHES

Distressing Attacks to Which Many Women Are Subject.

What the Tonic Treatment Has Done to Correct the Cause of This Recurring and Painful Illness.

There are few ailments that cause more genuine misery in the home than the attacks which are generally termed sick headaches. These attacks are often periodical and when the mother of a family is prostrated at intervals there is not only her own suffering to consider but the discomfort caused the other members of the household. Too often the recurrent symptoms bore a regular and familiar to those about her that the sufferer gets but little sympathy in her awful suffering."

Sick headaches arise from a variety of disturbances confined to the stomach and digestive tract and most of them can be cured or relieved to marked degrees. The tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has been successful in a large number of cases, one of which is that of Mrs. Mary A. Terry, of 721 East Main street, Clinton, Ill. She says:

"For thirty years I was subject to sick headaches. They began when I was a young girl and would occur as often as two or three times a week, seldom missing one. When these attacks came on I would get very sick at my stomach and vomit. The strain was so great that the blood-vessels in my head would swell up and my eyes would feel hot and the muscles in my neck stiff and sore. During these spells the pains in my head were intense and throbbing and would sometimes last for three days. I would be unable to sit up, being often confined to my bed."

"All of my mother's family were subject to violent headaches and the doctors told me I inherited it. They said I was in a bad condition and that it would take some time to cure me. They never gave me more than temporary relief and after years of doctoring I gave them up and started taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I began to get a little better after taking a few boxes and steadily improved until I was cured. I have felt well since and never have any more trouble with my head. I have always recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to anyone suffering as I did, for I have the greatest confidence in them."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 60 cents per box; six boxes, for $3.00, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

MAGAZINE REVIEW.

Jellied Vegetables.

"Jellied vegetables are particularly suitable for a luncheon or supper dish to be served as an accompaniment to almost any kind of cold sliced meat," says Fannie Merritt Farmer in Woman's Home Companion for June. "Remove the jelly to a serving dish, and surround with the slices of meat, overlapping one another; then garnish with celery tips. Cold meat needs to be very thinly sliced to be at its best; therefore do see to it that the closest can boast of sharp knives, for without them the work cannot be perfectly done. Soak one tablespoonful of granulated gelatin in one-fourth of a cupful of cold water, and dissolve in one cupful of boiling water; then add one-fourth of a cupful each of sugar and vinegar, two tablespoonsful of lemon juice and one teaspoonful of salt. Strain, cool, and when beginning to stiffen add one cupful of celery cut up in small pieces, one-half cupful of finely shredded cabbage and one and one-half cupful of sliced carrots in small pieces. Turn into a mold, and chill thoroughly."

The Kind Negroes the South Likes.

Ray Stannard Baker, writing of "The Negro in Politics," says, in the June American Magazine:

"The South, however much it may talk of the ignorant masses of negroes, does not really fear them; it wants to keep them ignorant. It loves the ignorant, submissive old negroes, the 'mammys' and 'uncles';
